NAPA VALLEY

The most famous wine appellation in the United States, Napa Valley is the gold standard when it comes to American winemaking, and for good reason. The perfect complement to the region's vino obsession? A sophisticated and thriving foodie culture.

SEE

An intimate new state-of-the-art winery, CADE, by the folks behind the acclaimed Plumpjack Winery, offers twice-daily private tours of its mountaintop grounds and innovative winemaking facilities for $30 per person (by appointment only). Afterward, you'll be treated to three small plates, each paired with a wine, in the sleek, sunlit tasting room, which has floor-to-ceiling windows overlooking the valley. Husband-and-wife hospitality team Kent and DJ Nielsen also offer evening cooking classes upon request. (cadewinery.com)
